Snow Day

Sarah Larose, 5, and Craig Zlady, 13, both of Chestnut Street, wasted no time in taking advantage of their first "snow day" Tuesday, when sledging, snowball fights and snowmen took the place of reading, writing and arithmetic for Andover schoolchildren.

School Budget Hike Set At Six Percent And Going Down

By Linda S. Corbett

The school committee Tuesday night elected to start budget planning for next year with a six percent increase, and work down from there.

Supt. Kenneth R. Seifert recommended six to seven percent over this year's $13 million budget as a "reasonable and responsible" starting point, until they know more what's happening in terms of Proposition 2½.

He said that six to seven percent is "already hitting an area of austerity that we haven't seen before as a starting point."

The committee traditionally sets a ceiling maximum increase, and then starts trimming.

Twenty percent was the highest starting point in recent years, and six percent the lowest starting point in at least 15 years. The "usual" is around 12.

Seifert said there is no doubt that something will have to give in terms of programs, personnel and services to arrive at six percent, much less anything lower. The teacher's contract requires six percent raises for next year, and inflation is expected to be much higher than that in the areas of fixed charges and other expenses.

The administration will be returning to the school committee with an idea of what they'll get and what they won't get under the six percent ceiling.

Chairman Elaine Viehmann said some of the areas they will be looking at are transportation and user fees for extra-curricular use of facilities.

Viehmann led off the budget discussion, calling it "obvious" that the board has a firm mandate "not just from the state but also from the Town of Andover to take Proposition 2½ seriously."

She acknowledged that "at the moment there's a lot of confusion about what 2½ is going to mean for Andover in the next year, because the figures just aren't available yet."

Seifert added that state representatives and other administrators he has talked to seem to feel that things are going to be "in a state of confusion for some months to come."

He said he realized "what was said" by the 2½ victory, but that almost 6,000 people had also said something good about the school system.

"I think people want to see a reasonable school system," he said.

School Committeeman Joseph Finn made the motion for the lower, six percent figure, with the "assumption that we will

Voters To Decide Tonight On Condo Bylaw, Plan

By Sue Aucella Deacon

When townspeople gather at East Junior High at 7:30 tonight for a special town meeting, they will vote on three articles that the planning board and selectmen have taken a stand against.

Article One, inserted by former selectman Sidney P. White, proposes an amendment to the town's zoning bylaw to allow a new "townhouse cluster" zone.

Article Two, also inserted by White, asks for town meeting approval — as required in the proposed bylaw amendment of Article One — of a proposed townhouse cluster development on Andover Street. Called Baker Village, the 48-unit development would be designed and built by Andover developers Wynwood Associates.

If the first article fails to win the voters' approval, the proposed development could not be built, because the town's current zoning does not allow additional multi-family housing.

Article Three, inserted by real estate broker William Gurry of 131 Main Street, asks town meeting to rezone his 3,000-square-foot lot from residential to general business. Gurry would like to convert the first floor of the three-story dwelling into business offices, so that he can work out of his home.

While the selectmen voted to recommend disapproval of the three articles last week, the planning board came down to the wire, holding lengthy meetings Monday and Tuesday nights to discuss the issues.

The planners resolved Tuesday night to recommend disapproval of the articles, with a unanimous vote on the third article, and a four to one vote on the first two. Board member Jack Tomlinson voted in favor of White's two articles.

The town manager and director of the Public Works Department appeared before the board Monday to present their reports on the White articles. Both of-

In Concert At Academy

Jane Kniffen

Miss Jane Kniffen and Robert Kniffen, brother-sister music teachers, will team up together to present a joint recital on Sunday, Nov. 23 at 3 p.m. in Kemper Recital Hall at Phillips Academy. Accompanist for the performance will be Jeanne Davis Porter, pianist.

The program will include: "Exsultate, Jubilate" by Mozart; "Thus Saith The Lord" from the Messiah by Handel; songs by Scarlatti, Strauss, Brahms, Schumann, Wolf, Copland plus arranged selections by Mrs. Porter from the Broadway shows, "Porgy and Bess," "Annie Get Your Gun," "Fiddler on the Roof," and "The Sound of Music." This is a benefit concert for the academy ski team directed by Mrs. Peter McNab and donations will be accepted.

Miss Kniffen, a resident of Andover and soloist at the First Church of Christ Scientist in Andover, teaches in Melrose. She earned a Bachelor of Music degree from Boston University studying voice and french horn. She has studied at Temple University, Hartt School of Music and Oberlin Conservatory of Music. She has taught in Mashfield, Hartford, Conn., Wilmington, Conn., and while there she

First Storm Brings Troubles

The first snow storm of the season and the earliest in many years brought troubles to the town's snow-fighting crews and the power company, Tuesday.

There were some accidents of a minor, fender-bender nature, but no injuries.

Schools were closed for the day. Basic problem beating the elements was the storm's arrival in mid-November when least expected, thus little time for preparation on the part of private contractors who assist the town in snow plowing operations. Also contributing to the problem was the fact that the snowfall did not actually get heavy enough to produce plowable accumulation until almost 5 a.m.

Public Works director Robert E. McQuade reports that his crews were out after midnight sanding and salting, switching to plowing about 4:30 a.m. The crews worked through the day until about 6 p.m., then returned to action at midnight to combat ice conditions with salt and sand during the early Wednesday morning hours.

day morning hours.

Commuters who head for Route 93 at the Route 125 ramp, ran into problems when they got to Wilmington where abandoned cars and lack of adequate plowing caused a massive tieup. One Andover resident heading for work in Boston left his home at 7:30 and finally gave up and returned home at 10 a.m.

Power outages in various sections of town were caused primarily by the heavy snow downing lines. Massachusetts Electric Co. crews had power restored for the most part by mid-morning.

While those responsible for clearing streets may have been caught by the early storm, so too were motorists who hadn't yet had snow tires put on. Trying to negotiate in the slippery stuff Tuesday morning was difficult at best without proper winter car equipment. Long lines were the order of the day both Tuesday and Wednesday as motorists hurried to prepare for the next storm — which at this time of year portends a long winter.

Tax Bills In Mail

First half Real Estate taxes have been mailed. Taxes will be due Dec. 19, 1980. Taxes unpaid after Dec. 19 will be subject to interest at 14 percent from Nov. 19.

The tax office will be open

Monday-Friday, 8:30 to 4:30 and Monday evenings, Nov. 24, Dec. 1, 8 and 15, 6 p.m. to 8 p.m.

If anyone does not receive a bill, contact tax office.

Revalue Work On Schedule

Revaluation of the town is going along on schedule with the phase involving property inspection due to be completed by the end of the month.

CRP Jacobs Co. project manager Eugene S. Tworek said this week that crews are still working the West Andover area and responding to callbacks.

Second visits and appointments are currently the prime work of the crews and Tworek said that Andover residents have been very cooperative in calling the office to make a time for inspection.

Tworek added that he would appreciate a call to the office at 475-0635 by persons who still must be visited, in order that this phase of the operation can be completed by the end of November.

Ox-Fam Fast Is Tonight

Tonight, Phillips Academy is holding a fast to benefit Ox-Fam America, and invites all members of the Merrimack Valley community to join.

Ox-Fam, founded in 1942, is a non-profit international agency which funds emergency food relief and self-help development programs in countries with widespread starvation. The organization's goal is to help these countries become self-sufficient food producers.

Over 1,000 P.A. students will forego dinner in the school dining hall tonight. For each person who fasts, the school will send a $1 rebate to headquarters in Boston. At suppertime, the fasters will meet in Cochran Chapel to discuss world hunger and their feelings as they fast. They will welcome anyone in the nearby community who can join them at 6 p.m. in Cochran Chapel on Chapel Street. Their hope is that the Merrimack Valley community will participate in the Ox-Fam fast, whether in such groups or on their own, and contribute the value of the meal to Ox-Fam. Contributions can be sent to Ox-Fam America, 302 Columbus Ave., Boston, MA 02116.

Ox-Fam receives no government funding and thus is entirely dependent on private contributions. To insure that its funds are not wasted through bureaucratic inefficiency, Ox-Fam has 30 field directors who live in the project countries and are familiar with specific local programs, so they can effectively oversee operations. Recent projects have been in Bangladesh, Bolivia and the war-torn countries of Cambodia and Nicaragua. The agency is now launching an operation to avert famine for millions in the Horn of Africa, hit by the worst drought in 15 years, and plagued by military conflict.

River and Salem Street between Woodridge and Wagon Wheel Roads. Salem Street is reached by going toward Harold Parker Forest where Salem Street crosses Route 125 north exit, off street parking available.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmond E. Hammond of Andover, the leaders, will start on the Hammond Reservation, named for Mr. Hammond's father, a past-president of A.V.I.S., 1943-1946, and post humous donar of funds to purchase this land. On the south side of Salem Street, hikers will go through the Booth and Kilman Holt A.V.I.S. lands, where Ralph and Welda Bailey created a beautiful trail in the summer of 1979, on to the newest portion of the Harold Parker Forest, a tract formerly part of the Jenkins Farms which includes the site of the famous soap stone quarry and sawmill.

Wear boots, the trail may be muddy in spots.

Side By Side To Be Staged In Lowell

The Merrimack Regional Theatre will celebrate the holiday season with Side By Side by Sondheim, a musical revue of Stephen Sondheim's dynamic Broadway CAREER, Nov. 21 thru Dec 21. Broadway veteran Bick Goss will stage this tuneful evening of wit, charm and elegance, with scenery and lighting designed by Stephen Pater and costumes by Larry Willette.

Stephen Sondheim burst onto the American musical scene as the lyricist for West Side Story, over 25 years ago. Since then he has written the lyrics for Gypsy (music by Jule Styne) and collaborated with Richard Rogers on Do I Hear A Waltz?. Sondheim is responsible for both words and music for some of the most memorable Broadway shows in the past 20 years, including A Funny Thing Happened On The Way To The Forum, Anyone Can Whistle, Company, Follies, A Little Night Music, Pacific Overtures and most recently Sweeney Todd.

In making today's announcement, MRT's Artistic Director Mark Kaufman and Managing Director Patricia Littrel pointed out that this was the first time the 2-year old professional theatre was presenting a musical as part of its regular schedule.

Side By Side by Sondheim Performances are Tuesday through Saturday at 8, matinees Saturday at 2 and Sunday at 4. MRT is located on Broadway and Wilder Streets, Lowell.

To Present Concerts

Memorial Hall Library, Andover, will present Margaret MacArthur and Family in two programs of traditional New England folk songs and ballads on Friday, Nov. 28 at 2 p.m. and again at 7:30 p.m.

Margaret MacArthur spent most of her childhood in the Ozarks of Missouri where she first became interested in the traditional ballads and songs of her friends and neighbors. She has collected songs in many parts of the country, most notably in western Kentucky and Vermont where she has lived since 1948. Margaret sings old songs, songs of the farms, mountains, rivers and seasons, accompanying herself on the guitar, dulcimer and folk harp. Her children will join her, playing the guitar, fiddle, mandolin and bass.

The 2 p.m. program will be geared for younger children while the evening performance will appeal to music lovers of all ages.

Refreshments provided by the Friends of the Library will be served at both performances.

Tickets will be required and will be

On Exhibit

On Friday, Nov. 21, 7 to 9 p.m., Andover Gallery will host the opening of the recent work of artist Anne Mac Dougall. The show will consist of 25 prints and wash drawings. Ms. Mac Dougall is a Boston-based artist with a studio at The Boston Center for the Arts. She attended Randolph-Macon Woman's College and Syracuse University where she did graduate work in art. She has been exhibiting since 1970 under the name of Ballou and has recently returned to her birth-given name of Mac Dougall. Along with this change, her work has returned to an earlier theme, the land. The show will remain on view through Jan. 2. The gallery is located at 91 North Main St. (Rte. 28), Andover, MA 01810, and is free and open to the public.

Open House

An open house for women interested in learning more about technical careers will be held at Northern Essex Community College, Haverhill, on Nov. 20, from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. in the College Center Carpeted Lounge.

As part of the open house, a panel of women who are now working in a variety of technical jobs will discuss their work. The panelists include Kathleen McCormack, of ASA, Inc., of Boston, who talks about what kinds of jobs are available in technical companies; Karen Keefe, a senior technical instructor and former technician at Digital in Salem, N.H.; and Kathy Lambert, a drafter who does contract work. A representative of the Greater Boston Chapter of Women in Computing is also expected to take part.

Members of the staff at Northern Essex Community College will be available to discuss training options for women considering technical careers.

The event is open to the public free of charge, and no pre-registration is required.

Seven Gables

The House of Seven Gables in Salem, made famous by Hawthorne's book, is open daily, 10 to 4:30, at 54 Turner St., not far from the new Pickering Wharf.

Western Roundup

By Mary Driscoll,
Kathy Mulvey, Ellen Byrne

Another week has past at West Junior High bringing the football teams to a closing season. The eighth grade football team challenged East Saturday morning ending its season with a 8-6 win, making their record a 4 wins, 3 losses.

The Freshman Football team also closed their season with a game. Their game against Chelmsford on Nov. 15 brought them a 20-16 win which gives them a final record of 4 wins, 4 losses, and 1 tie. Congratulations to Peter Comeau, Eric Fitzpatrick, Ed Hardy, plus coaches Tisbert and Warren for making it a successful season.

The Debating Club was at it again this week. Tom Lord was elected President, elected vice president was Christine O'Hara, Scott Bertetti was elected secretary and the treasurer is Scott Goldman for the Debating Club.

Special thanks to Debbie Bartle, Tracy Wagner, Maura King, Kevin Lambroit, Heather Taylor, and Steve Shrestinian, the West Side Singers and all those who participated in the First Annual Family Cabaret for making it a memorable occasion for all.

Victorian Splendor

Victorian Winter will be a December-long celebration at the Museum of Transportation in Boston as the clock rolls back over 80 years to the days when sleighs would glide down unplowed main streets under the glow of gas lamps augmented by the ringing of sleigh bells and the singing of holiday revelers.

Starting on Dec. 1, the Museum's 1895 City Square area will be filled with sleighs, skis, skates, sleds, sleigh bells, and lap robes. Cases will contain marvelous antique toys that any Victorian boy or girl would have been thrilled to own. Mannequins, on loan to the Museum from Filenes, will be wearing authentic period winter costume from the collections of Annamarie Clifford of Hyde Park and the North Andover Historical Society. The entire area will be lined with seasonal decorations courtesy of the Christmas Dove at Faneuil Hall Marketplace.

Sanborn Thanksgiving Festival

In this, the International Year of the Family, the Sanborn School family is involved in the annual Harvest Thanksgiving Festival.

Children from all the grades have been collecting food supplies this week and depositing their gifts in beautifully decorated boxes in each classroom.

Sanborn's two Girl Scout troops, under the direction of Mrs. Susan DeMoulas and Mrs. Mary Hinchey, are responsible for the festive cartons throughout the school. Next week the youngsters will bring in plants, flowers, and baked goods to complete the Thanksgiving packages for the elderly and shut-ins in Andover.

Tuesday, Nov. 25 at 9:30 a.m. there will be a school assembly which will address the values of giving and sharing. Mrs. Mary Guzieka, music specialist, has planned the ceremony with appropriate music and speakers to finalize the entire school experience of caring for others during this Thanksgiving season. This project is sponsored by the PTA and this year's chairwoman is Mrs. Maureen Wood. Parents, as well as the public, are invited to attend.

Shortly after the assembly, Sanborn children selected from the upper grades will board a bus to visit the elderly and distribute the gifts.

AHS Notebook

By Laurie Lewis

Even though the Andover High School soccer team suffered a heart-breaking 1-0 defeat at the hands of Lexington last Saturday, they should be commended on their outstanding season.

"This year's highly skilled varsity soccer team is a credit to Andover High School and its athletic program," states Richard Swift, physical education department head. The team compiled numerous records and awards. Among these, they were Merrimack Valley East Conference Champions. This was the first time they have received this honor since the conference was formed. Billerica was the Merrimack Valley West Conference Champions, but Andover beat them in their only regular season head to head competition. Therefore, Andover considers themselves the real winners. It was as good a season as an Andover High School soccer team has ever had with a regular season record of 14-1-1. Talented sophomore Steve Carbone tied the school record for most goals scored in a season with 12. Premier senior goaltender Brian Butler set the record for most shutouts in a season (8), and the lowest goals against average of .70. Butler does not take all of the credit himself, "The defense played well out in front of me. Without them, the team would not have been as successful."

Coach Dave Amundsen hopes the team will perform as well next year. "We had a good balance of seniors and underclassmen. I will miss the kids that will go on to college, and I wish them continued success." Hopefully, this is only the beginning of a tradition of fine soccer teams to come out of the high school.

Perhaps the most important factor that contributed to the team's success was the tremendous unity. Senior captains Dan Donovan and Paul Reichert are in total agreement when they say, "Our great success this season was due not only to our skill and aggressiveness, but the team spirit that kept us together. We can look forward to as good, if not better, teams in the future, because of the talent coming out of the junior high schools."

The other members of the championship team are: Seniors: Chris Bates, Barry

Christmas Concert Planned

An exciting program is planned for the 11th Christmas concert for the North Parrish Choral Society and Treble Chorus. The first performance is scheduled for Dec. 7 at 7 p.m. at South Church in Andover. The title this year is "Stille Nacht," and the program features German choral works by F. Tunder, J. Brahms, J.S. Bach, and Scheidt. Both choruses include 46 adults and 48 children from Woburn, Reading, North Reading, Andover, North Andover, Wilmington, Burlington, Beverly, Groton, and Stoneham.

This September, the society received a Local Arts Project Grant from the Mass. Council on the Arts and Humanities which promises to match monies raised during this month's fund raising program. This will make it possible to obtain the services of a large orchestra which will include 6 violins, 2 violas, 2 cellos, 1 bass, 1 flute, 1 clarinet, 1 oboe and tympany, all played by local professional artists and conducted by music director, Mrs. Marie Stultz.

Last spring, Mrs. Stultz resigned her teaching position in the music department of the Burlington school system to devote her time exclusively to composing and private teaching. The society will present the premiere performance of Mrs. Stultz' "Suite Nativitat" composed for senior and treble choruses and full orchestra. This major effort represents Mrs. Stultz' debut as an accomplished modern composer and artist. The themes of this work are based on early German Christmas carols which are sometimes stated directly, and sometimes developed in Mrs. Stultz' own style which, unlike most modern composers, is lyrical, melodic and purposely accessible to discriminating amateur listeners and performers. The piece capitalizes on the dynamics of contrasting sounds of adult and treble choruses and uses various aspects of each orchestral instrument to emphasize the often very different moods of the modern Christmas season through the development of the ancient Christmas Story.

Other concerts planned for this Christmas season include: Dec. 13 at the Congregational Church in Salem at 8 p.m. and Dec. 14 at St. Margaret's Church in Burlington at 7:30 p.m. Admission to all performances is free with a donation requested at the door. The public is invited to attend. These concerts are funded in part by the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities, a state agency whose funds are recommended by the Governor and appropriated by the State Legislature.

Faith Church Sponsors Christmas School

The Christmas school for four and five year olds will be held Dec. 1 - Dec. 5 from 9:30 - 11:15 a.m. The school is designed to help young children in the area to come to an appreciation of Christ's birth. There is no charge, although a free will offering will be received.

Registration may be made by calling Mrs. Terry Shettel, 101 Central St., Andover, before Nov. 21. Due to space limitations the first 50 children that apply will be accepted.

Plans Set For Vale Church Fair

Plans were finalized for the annual fair of the Ballardvale United Church at a committee meeting held at the home of Ruth Mattheson on Monday, Nov. 17.

The fair will open on Friday, Dec. 5 from 4-9 and Saturday, Dec. 6 from 10 - 4.

Louise Mears will be in charge of the knit table; Helen Webb, gifts and novelties; Grace Nicoll, Christmas decorations; Leon Gray, woodcraft; Florence Letters, bakery and candy; Winnie Butler, plants; Hazel Milligan, aprons; Edna McIntyre and Doris Smith, attic treasures; Ruth Sharp, country store; and Lorna and John McIntyre, snack bar; Pat Brouillard and Barbara Itz, decorating. Ruth Mattheson and Helen Webb are co-chairwomen.

Small World

Grace Episcopal Church, 35 Jackson St., Lawrence is the scene of "It's A Small World" Fair 20 from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Chaired by Mrs. Frederick Skaff, the fair features the traditional Lobster Luncheon from 11:30 to 1, served by the ladies of the parish, and the William Lawrence Club will host a true New England Baked Bean Supper from 4:30 to 6:30.

The Kids Choir directed by James Wagner, will sing at 7 p.m. and will be followed by an auction at 7:30 p.m.

Several handcrafted articles will be awarded on Thursday, including a School House Clock made by Samuel Porter, a hand made afghan by Mary Gallant and a Tiffany Lamp crafted by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mueller Jr.

Mrs. John Tremblay is chairman of the decorating committee, which has transformed the Malcolm Peabody House into "A Small World" of plants, candy, gifts, gourmet delights, bakery and all the traditional treats found at country fairs.

Thanking God together.

Ever since the Pilgrims, Thanksgiving has been a day to thank God for His blessings. Sometimes joining others in gratitude can mean even more. We'd love to have you join us in giving thanks to God this week. Our Thanksgiving Day services include Bible readings and passages from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy; testimonies of gratitude by members of the congregation; and singing of hymns. No collections are taken.

Would you be free to come? (And you can bring your family, too.)

The center joins the new downtown Lawrence site at 351 Essex St., and Andover Street, Lawrence facility in providing comprehensive mental health services.

Greenbelt Receives Bequest

The Essex County Greenbelt Association has received the largest bequest in its history.

Mrs. Glenice A. Noyes of Topsfield, who died April 6, 1979, loved the birds and wildlife which abounded in the woodland around her house on the banks of Fish Brook. In her will she left Greenbelt one-third of the residue of her estate, in the vicinity of $6000, and also two house lots that Greenbelt is not required to keep as a permanent reservation.

THE total area is less than two acres, largely an open mowing with a few large trees. It has no significance as wildlife habitat or agricultural land. Therefore, Greenbelt will sell the two lots, holding the proceeds in its endowment fund and available for use in purchasing other open land with greater significance for conservation.

READ THIS, AND GIVE IT A GRADE

The sum of all known reverence I add up in you, whoever you are.

The people who govern are there for you; it is not you who are there for them; All architecture is what you do to it when you look upon it; All music is what awakes from you when you are reminded by the instruments.

The sun and stars that float in the open air; The apple shaped earth and we upon it; The wonder everyone sees in everyone else's/he sees, and the wonders that fill each minute of time forever:

It is for you, whoever you are — it is no farther from you than you hearing and sight are from you.

It is hinted by nearest, commonest, readiest.

We consider bibles and religions divine — I do not say they are not divine: I say they have all grown out of you, and may grow out of you still. It is not they who give the life — it is you who give the life.

Will you seek afar off? You surely come back at last, in things best known to you, finding the best, or as good as the best —

Happiness, knowledge, not in another place, but this place — not for another hour, but this hour.

IF YOU GAVE THESE THOUGHTS A B+ or better you might find the UNITARIAN UNIVERSALIST CHURCH of interest. We UU's look at life as Walt Whitman did, and express that search through our time together on Sundays at 10:30 a.m. We're at 244 Lowell Street [Rte 133] in Andover. Or call 475-4454 for more information.

Decorative Touches

Harvest Bazaar At St. Robert's

St. Robert Bellarmine Church, Haggetts Road, Andover is having its annual Harvest Bazaar, Saturday, Nov. 22 from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the church basement.

Features will be the Christmas booth, plant table, white elephant table, hand crafts, Mother Goose, books, make-a-button, games and movies, bakery, candy tables and the famous prize and raffle pavillion.

Some of the awards to be offered are color TV, stereo fm/am radio, 12 piece Teflon cookware set, 36 piece assortment of towels and many booth prizes.

Fifty famous clown dolls, handmade, will only be offered in a drawing this year but a single ticket will offer 50 opportunities to win.

A special attraction for children will be a picture with Santa Claus that can be taken with your own camera.

The restaurant international will serve food all day.

An added feature this year will be the Italian spaghetti supper with ice cream to be served from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. Tickets can be purchased beforehand at the rectory or the day of the fair.

The Art Of Flower Arranging

Christopher C. Cook, director of the Addison Gallery of American Art at Phillips Academy, and Bernice B. Rothseid, president of the Andover Garden Club, admire one of the flower arrangements on display at the gallery last weekend. Club members designed arrangements to complement a selection of paintings in two exhibits, "Visions of the New Land: 19th Century American Landscape", and "Heads."

Seminar Focuses On Saving Volunteerism

"If a husband dies and leaves her the business, then it's all right for a woman to run The Washington Post." With this anecdote, Change Agent Riva Poor launched into a dialogue on women and power. This was one of many topics discussed at a Nov. 12 workshop entitled "Principles of Management — A Problem Clinic." Sponsored by the League of Women Voters, the program drew 350 people to Boston's Federal Reserve Bank Building.

The format of the three-hour session bounced back and forth between Poor's prepared presentation and lively question and answer periods. Poor touched on a variety of subjects: women and power, the behavior of successful people, and differing styles of leadership. She focused, however, on the needs of volunteer organizations in an era of declining volunteerism.

Participants claimed that as more women step into the job market, fewer have time for volunteer activities. This presents a number of problems for groups like the League. In the area of public policy, as Andover's Susan Shaer noted, "numbers are clout." Poor explained how organizations can use effective management techniques to bolster their ranks. "Keep your members by making them happy," she said. Officers must be aware of the individual needs of their volunteers. Poor suggested that "if someone just wants to socialize — fine — let her lick envelopes." Otherwise, leaders must carefully assign tasks that are commensurate with each person's skills.

"Attitude is everything," Poor warned. Many women find that they no longer have time to take on volunteer projects. Poor cautioned against making these people feel guilty. "If someone has gone back to work and can't help you out — Thank her for staying with the League."

As a management consultant with 11 years experience, Poor has a large repertoire of case studies to draw on. The workshop participants came from all over the state to hear her speak. LWV president Barbara Fegan noted that "volunteerism is the glue that holds our communities together." Armed with new management techniques, 350 eager Massachusetts women are working to make that bond even stronger.

Open House At Castle

Hammond Castle Museum extends a public invitation to an "Open House" in celebration of the exhibition "Art in the Service of Religion" and the recent publication of the exhibition catalogue Saturday, from 5 to 7 p.m.

At 5:30 p.m. there will be introductory remarks by Naomi Kline, curator and director of Museum programs. At 6 p.m., informal gallery walks conducted by staff members are scheduled.

"Art in the Service of Religion" is an exhibition of religious objects chosen from the Hammond Castle Museum collection. Many of them have been recently restored with the aid of funds from the National Endowment for the Arts. Selected objects include Russian icons, liturgical vestments and eucharistic metalwork. The jewel-like exhibition is displayed in the Great Hall and Tower Galleries. The catalogue is complimentary to Castle members.

Mrs. Stephen B. Weiner

Weiner-Brown

Kathryn Giles Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Brown of Providence, R.I., became the bride Saturday of Stephen Brooks Weiner of Andover. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin L. Weiner, 276 So. Main St.

The 4 p.m. ceremony took place in St. Martin's Church in Providence. Cynthia Evans Brown attended her sister as maid of honor, and bridesmaids included Abigail B. Weiner, the groom's sister; Patricia L. Ohlinger, Jan H. Lyle, Mrs.

Claire Stieff-Hussey and Mrs. William Kientz.

Jeffrey Brooks Weiner was his brother's best man, and ushers were the bride's brother, Robert O. Brown; Philip M. Hooper, James Shand, Paul E. Lane, Paul E. MacNamara and Timothy Tower.

A reception followed at the Agawam Hunt Club, East Providence.

The new Mrs. Weiner graduated from Wheeler School in Providence and Bennett College in Millbrook, N.Y. Her husband, a graduate of Phillips Academy and Princeton University, is president of North East Solvents in North Andover.

They will be making their home in Andover.

The Andovers Portrait of Two New England Towns

Some readers will enjoy the tours of North Andover and Andover that the sequence of illustrations in this book provides. Some will want the book for the historical portrait the photographs give of each town. Some will want the book because they have long waited for this study by Katharine Knowles, whose photographs have captured the spirit of so much of New England and now, finally, of the area in which she was brought up.

Reason For Consultant Explained

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:

Your recent editorials and coverage of the cable television matter now pending before the Board of Selectman have missed a key point.

Continental Cablevision recommended that the Town hire a cable consultant not — as you suggest — to assess the financial condition of Rollins Cablevision, but to analyze the economic viability of Rollins' specific proposal for Andover. The difference is crucial. Continental has not questioned Rollins' financial resources. What we have questioned is whether Rollins or any other cable company can provide the facilities and services Rollins has promised Andover at the investment and the subscriber rates claimed. In our view, Rollins has promised more than can realistically be delivered simply to get its long sought first franchise in Massachusetts.

The problem with this approach is that in order to deliver on its promises Rollins will either have to absorb greater losses than most cable companies are prepared to accept or, more likely, end up charging Andover residents much higher rates. Your readers should remember that ultimately the Andover cable system will be paid for not by the cable company, but by Andover cable subscribers. Continental believes that analysis of Rollins' application by an experienced cable television consultant will demonstrate that the

Soccer Allowed Field Use

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:

Andover's championship soccer team expected to play the first round of the North Sectional State Championship on their home field on Monday or Tuesday, November 10th or 11th.

Andover school officials decided the game should be played on Lovely Field.

While the field layout was being planned, the schedules seeded Andover and Billerica first in the North Sectional Playoffs. As a result of the coin flip, Andover is seeded second — and the top three seeds were given byes for the first round of the playoffs.

So, Andover's championship soccer team was not played on Lovely Field this year. They have always known they should be playing on it, and this year they could have played on it — thanks to Athletic Director Dick Swift, Superintendent Ken Seifert, and School Committeemen John Eaton, Joe Finn, Dick Neal, Don Robb, and Chairman Elaine Viehmann.

I would like to publicly thank them for letting the members of the team know that the Andover Schol administration, representing the community, are solidly behind them and appreciate their efforts.

Darrel Bates

proposal is unrealistic.

We also take issue with your contention that because Rollins is an applicant for the Boston cable franchise, the company is therefore presumed to be the best company for Andover. The Townsman might shed more light on the debate by inquiring as to why Rollins has already been turned down by eight Massachusetts communities including Tewksbury. The Townsman could also play a constructive role by talking to other cable companies to find out why, at a time when dozens of cable firms are actively seeking franchises in the Boston area, only Rollins is willing to construct a self-sufficient system in Andover.

Many other questions could be asked. In the end, it will be to the town's advantage to get answers to all the questions before awarding a license.

Renaissance In Theater Arts

To the Editor of The Townsman:

A renaissance in theater arts is presently underway in Andover and the surrounding Merrimack Valley. This past weekend I was excited when I saw the Andover Community Theater production of "Mame," which sparkled with singing and glistened when the dance numbers whirled across the stage.

In speaking to the vice-president of A.C.T., Ron Wackowski, he informed me that, despite a smallish crowd of 125 on Thursday night, the Friday and Saturday night performances were sell-outs. The audience received more than its money's worth (only $4 per adult) and standing ovations by the audiences on Friday and Saturday evening indicated their approval of this dynamic production.

In addition to A.C.T., Andover also boasts a most enthusiastic group of young men and women at Andover High School. These talented performers will present the hit Broadway show, "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying", Nov. 28 and 29, at the West Junior High School. All citizens of Andover who have seen previous high school productions and Cabarets know the dedication and

For Those Of Us Who Are Older

By Janet D. Lake

There will be no hot lunch program at West Elementary School next week on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, because of the Thanksgiving Day holiday. BUT — Friday you can come to The Haven and enjoy a ham and bean luncheon for $2. That's the day after Thanksgiving. You have to make a reservation, which is easy enough. Just call The Haven at 470-0870 and make the arrangements. You'll have people to eat with and it won't be left over turkey! And after lunch, you can stay to play Bingo! Make a day of it at the Andover senior center - The Haven.

The Wednesday afternoon blood pressure and counseling session will be back to Wednesdays again starting Nov. 26. You don't need an appointment to meet with Mary Hamilton or Sally Healy between 2 and 3 p.m. at The Haven.

The next regular mini-clinic will be Tuesday, Nov. 25 at Frye Circle. You will need an appointment for the mini-clinic, and you make it by calling the Andover Health Dept. at 475-7820.

professional quality of their productions. In addition to these two fine theater groups, there are also the Merrimack Valley Theater at the University of Lowell, the Garrett Players, plus theater groups in North Reading and Haverhill. It is an exciting time for theater-goers. In addition, at the high school, we are beginning to make plans for a Theater Arts Program which will be housed in the new auditorium to be completed in 1983.

I urge residents of Andover to support these most exciting theater companies; you will be pleasantly surprised at the excitement they generate.

Appreciation

To the Editor of The Townsman:

I would like to express my thanks and appreciation to those many people who worked so hard for me in my recent Congressional campaign. While I did not win, we succeeded in accomplishing many of our objectives. I would like all of my supporters to share a sense of accomplishment with me. Without their help, the success we achieved would not have been possible.

soring a New Hampshire outlet shopping trip with luncheon at Hanover House Restaurant in Manchester, with choice of roast beef or schrod - and all for $10. Bus leaves Andover about 11 and returns by 4:30. The price includes transportation and lunch. Sign up right away.

And you can bethinking about things to do in January, too, because they have planned a mystery ride to somewhere "within the continental limits of the USA" according to those who know. The ride starts in Andover, leaving about 11, stopping for lunch where you'll have a choice of entree of either boneless breast of chicken or schrod, and back to Andover about 3:30 after a fun-filled afternoon of adventure and entertainment. The $10 fee is all-inclusive. Don't delay signing up for this mystery trip, Jan. 13.

Tickets are available at The Haven now for the annual Christmas party, Thursday, Dec. 11. Dinner starts at 6 p.m. and will be followed by a Christmas concert given by the Merrimack Valley Chapter of the Sweet Adelines. The concert is also open to the public - 75 cents for children and $1.25 for adults. The price for the dinner and the entertainment is $4, with dinner featuring boneless breast of chicken. The event will be held at West Junior High School.

Historic Fall Tours

The Lowell National Historical Park continues its Fall and Winter tour schedule. The Park will offer three walking tours daily at 10:30, 12 and 2. The tours will be the Wannalancit Mill Walk (Exterior) at 10:30, Power Canals at 12 and Lowell History at 2, reservations accepted. Groups making special arrangements in advance will be offered a choice of four topics:

Wannalancit Mill Walk (Exterior): A leisurely walk around the outside of the Wannalancit Mill area. A discussion of mill architecture, operation, and utilization of water power and an examination of various groups who made up Lowell's workforce are the topics of interest.

Power Canals: A tour of the powerful story behind Lowell's hydro-system, a discussion of what is happening to that system today, and what is in store for Lowell's canals in the future.

Lowell History: Discover the industrial utopia of Lowell's Golden Age. Explore the city's founding and examine first hand the industrial model Lowell would become for other textile centers that followed. See how life in Lowell was changed by successive waves of immigrants and how increased competition led to changes in the economy of the city. Economic conditions, the rise, decline and rebirth of the city are discussed.

Ethnic Heritage: A discussion of the various groups and their respective contributions to the growth and character of the city.

Group reservations are required. For more information and reservations, call Lowell National Historical Park.

Dance Concert

The Bradford College Dance Company is presenting its annual fall concert Friday and Saturday, Nov. 21 and 22 in Denworth Hall. Directed by Ann Marie Borkowski of the dance faculty with the assistance of Cheryl Ann Lavoie, graduate intern from University of New Hampshire, the company will perform works in ballet, modern, jazz and tap.

The 27-member company is comprised of dancers with varying levels of technical ability and experience leading to a diverse program.

Tickets may be purchased in advance at the Bradford College Bookstore, on the Kingsbury Avenue side of the campus, or at the door on the nights of the performances.

For further information on special group rates call the Public Relations Office.

Academy Ensembles In Concert

On Sunday, Nov. 23, at 3 p.m., in Cochran Chapel, Phillips Academy, the academy brass ensemble, jazz band, and concert band will present a concert.

The brass ensemble, under William Clift's direction, will perform three Renaissance works, including a variety of dances and airs, by Susato, Schein, and Adson. Clift will then don another cap to lead the jazz band in tunes from the '40's to the present, composed by the likes of Duke Ellington, Neal Hefti, Leonard Bernstein, and Richard Rodgers.

The concert band, conducted by Richard Wilson, will play two marches — Sousa's El Capitan and Wagner's Under the Double Eagle; 2-Part Contention, an arrangement of a Dave Brubeck piano performance; a medley of songs from Fiddler on the Roof; and Le Journal du Printemps, a charming suite by 18th century composer J.C.F. Fischer, arranged by former Yale band director, Keith Wilson.

The concert is free and open to the public.

Grange Supper

North Andover Grange will hold a Ham and Bean Supper Saturday evening, Nov. 29, in the Grange Hall, in Olde North Andover Center, back of the Hay Scales Exchange.

The supper will be served on a continuous basis from 5 to 7 p.m. Tickets will be available at the door or from any member of the Committee.

Mrs. Frances Bodge and Mrs. Sarah Lovejoy are in charge of the event, assisted by the ladies of the Grange.

They're Digging Prehistoric Times At Shattuck Farm

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Along the southern banks of the Merrimack River in Andover lie more than 30 acres of land rich with artifacts of Indian life in the days long before the Europeans arrived here. Experts call it "the most important known prehistoric archaeological site in Massachusetts on which excavation and research is still possible."

This archaeological goldmine is located on the site of the Shattuck farm, and although its treasures have been threatened — and some of them possibly destroyed — by recent industrial development, archaeologists are now working to study and preserve the site.

This fall, the Andover Historical Society teamed up with the Massachusetts Historical Commission to begin a two-year survey of the farm. The archaeologists now at work have been contracted by the state, while the local society has provided financing, with funds from the Catherine G. Shattuck Memorial Trust.

From the early 1700s on, the Shattuck farm was a large and productive one. Owned first by David Abbott, it was later divided and sold to Frederick Noyes and Joseph Shattuck. During the 1870s, Shattuck's four grandsons bought the Noyes farm and combined it with their property to form a large dairy, with some vegetable gardening.

During this century, the farm continued to thrive; some townspeople may remember the country store and restaurant that were established there during '40s.

Some of the dwellings built by Abbot during the 18th century still stand, serving as weathered red landmarks on the dwindling farmland, which is now bordered by Valle's Restaurant, the West Andover Industrial Tech Park, and Route 93.

But long before colonial settlers farmed the land, the Pentucket Indians farmed and hunted there, archaeologists believe. The Indians hunted deer and game birds on the site, and fished for the plentiful salmon, herring, sturgeon and bass in the Merrimack. There is evidence that the Indians occupied the land, year round, from 6000 B.P. (Before Present) until 1600 A.D.

The site has been a favorite hunting ground for amateur archaeologists since it was discovered near the end of the last century. But until now, it has never been the subject of comprehensive testing by professionals.

Under the direction of Tom Mahlstedt, a doctoral candidate at Boston University, six archaeologists have dug approximately 300 shallow test pits on 30 acres on the first and second terraces back from the river.

Mahlstedt explains that the test pits show which parts of the site might be fertile with artifacts, and which are barren — important information to the University of Massachusetts field school students who will conduct deeper excavations next spring, during the second phase of the project.

"Some sections turn up virtually nothing," Mahlstedt says, explaining that the area where evidence of occupation has been found is "relatively small, and mostly near where the marshlands used to be."

Farmers' plows and collectors have disturbed some of the artifacts, but more recent development has probably done the most damage, the field director says. "When Route 93 was put in, six or seven feet of soil was torn out, and a lot of that area was probably very, very prime area that is now lost to us."

The test pits, which are usually only one meter deep, also show how the soil is layered, Mahlstedt says. The first foot or so is top soil created largely by the white man's farming. Artifacts from historic times have been found in this layers.

Prehistoric artifacts of the Indian settlements will be found, the archaeologists hope, in the deeper layer of clay soil deposited by a melting glacier approximately 12 centuries ago.

Fred B. Cole, Retired Sports Editor Succumbs

Fred B. Cole, 78, retired sports editor and golf columnist for the Lawrence Eagle-Tribune, died suddenly Sunday afternoon at his 50 Farrwood Ave. home in North Andover.

Born in Andover and a graduate of Andover schools, Cole was dean of Essex County sportswriters. While his over 50 years in sportswriting included coverage of both professional and amateur athletics, his particular forte was in schoolboy competition.

Many honors have been accorded him in the county area among school sports including Cape Ann League championship trophy being named in his honor. the annual Masconomet-Triton football game is in his honor, and he was awarded an honorary "M" at Masconomet and a varsity baseball certificate by Reading High.

But perhaps what summed it best for him was the presentation of a plaque by Austin Prep in the early 70's. It read: "In appreciation of nine years of friendship to Austin Prep and for 50 years service to schoolboy sports."

An almost daily golfer, he was a member of the Andover Country Club where he was awarded the Doc Davidson Sportsmanship Award in 1972.

Also included in his specific interests were Phillips Academy sports and he covered the traditional Andover-Exeter game for many years.

He got his start as a writer during the Golden Age of Sports first at the Lawrence Telegram and later at the Lawrence Sunday Sun before joining the Eagle-Tribune sports staff. Over the next half century, he met many at the top of their profession - Gene Tunney, then heavyweight boxing champ; Tommy Loughlin, light heavyweight titlist; George (Lefty) Tyler of the 1914 Miracle Boston Braves; Gus Sonnenberg, national wrestling champ; and Jim Thorpe, considered by many as the greatest American athlete ever.

He covered World Series action and such post-war baseball stars as Don Newcombe and Roy Campanella, who played with Nashua in the New England Baseball League.

His preference was schoolboy sports and he often spoke about the great individuals he met - Ralph Hewitt, Harry Agannis, Bill Quinlan, Sid Watson, Johnny Barrett, John Broca, Lefty Somerville, Ken Kueffel among them.

Cole and Evelyn H. Steindl, whom he met on a blind date and married on June 17, 1929 in St. Michael's Church, were a close couple, always enjoying themselves whether it be at a party, at events sponsored by the 65-Plus Club with which they were affiliated, or on the ice skating rink where they spent many hours together enjoying the sport.

His affiliations were many. He is a former president of the Eagle-Tribune Associates, a former vice-president of the Greater Lawrence Alumni of Boston University; a member of the Boston University Varsity Club, the Men of Merrimack, the Bon Secours Men's Guild, Sigma Delta Chi, National Journalistic Society, the National Association of Sportscasters and Sportswriters, the Golf Writers Association of America and the Andover Country Club. He also was an honorary athletic director of the Cape Ann High School League.

His name has appeared in Who's Who in New England and in Who's Who in the East.

Besides his wife, he is survived by a son, Frederick B. Jr. of Crofton, Md.; a sister, Mrs. Benjamin (Mary) Durland of Denver, Colo.; and four grandchildren.

Arrangements were under the direction of the Cataudella Funeral Home, 180 Garden St., Lawrence.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Heart Fund or to the charity of one's choice.

Extracurricular, Coaching Appointments Made

The school committee Tuesday night made a number of extracurricular appointments for the 1980-81 school year, and named a host of coaches for winter sports.

At the high school, Robert King was named dramatics coach with a stipend of $1,188; Kathleen Scanlon, newspaper adviser, $650; Charles Wettergreen, yearbook adviser, $850; Sarah O'Brien, assistant yearbook adviser, $648; Robert Lawson, Math League adviser, $675; JoAnn Samra, junior class adviser, $500; and Alfio Graceffa, band director, $1,300.

Nora Harrison was named newspaper adviser at West Jr. High, with a stipend of $516; and Kenneth Pellerin, student council adviser at East Jr. High, $414.

In the winter coaching department, by school, are the following:

Andover High - William Drummond, phys. ed. and athletic business manager, $1,232; Gerald Schimmel, head ski coach, $727; Gail Kolbe, assistant ski coach, $395; Wilbur Hixon, head boys basketball coach, $2,502; William Vickers, J.V. boys basketball, $1,751; Edward Kelley, sophomore boys basketball, $1,376; Evelyn Cullinane, head girls gymnastics, $1,751; Joan Axelrod, head girls basketball, $1,730; Patricia Thomson, J.V. girls basketball, $1,501; Richard Bourdelais, head indoor track, $1,751; Robert Welch, assistant indoor track, $1,313; Arthur Iworsley, assistant indoor track, $1,313; Peter Grogan, head ice hockey, $1,751; George Spanos, assistant ice hockey, $636; and Gerald Grasso, wrestling, $1,751.

East Jr. High - Theodore Boudreau, equipment manager, $375; Robert Hatem, freshman boys basketball, $1,313; James Hurley, junior high boys basketball, $1,313; Greta Cocco, junior high girls basketball, $970; and Charles Labelle, intramural coordinator, $530.

West Jr. High - Gerald Greene, equipment manager, $375; George Sullivan, freshman boys basketball, $1,313; Arthur Nichols, junior high boys basketball, $1,313; Karen Kennedy, junior high girls basketball, $700; and Jay Darrin, intramural coordinator, $530.

Planners Reject Gurry Proposal

The Planning Board will join the selectmen in their recommendation to disapprove William Gurry's proposal to rezone his 131 Main Street lot from residential to business district during tonight's special town meeting.

Gurry's proposal, Article Three on the warrant, calls for rezoning the 3,000-square foot lot, where he lives, from single residential A to general business district.

Gurry, a real estate broker, says he would like to use the first floor of the three-floor, multi-family dwelling as offices for his business.

The planning board Tuesday night resolved unanimously to disapprove the article because it would be spot zoning: creating a zone inconsistent with the zoning around it.

At a public hearing before the planning board Monday night, which was sparsely attended and elicited little public comment, Gurry asked the board to "make a fair judgment on the basis of my proposal."

Gurry argued that his proposal is not "a classic case of spot zoning," as Director of Community Development and Planning Rhys Kear recently said, because it would not "change the color of the neighborhood."

"If you put a Dairy Queen on Enmore Street, that would be spot zoning," he told the board. "But there are other businesses nearby. I am next to an existing tailor shop, three lawyers, and the Andover Shop (a clothing store). This use would conform to the neighborhood."

Emphasizing that his building is located only 900 feet from the downtown general business district, Gurry said that "in that 900-foot stretch, there is not one single-family residence, and at one time or another, every piece of property along that stretch was used for business purposes."

He added that when he collected 600 signatures on his petition for a special town meeting, "not one of the people who signed my petition didn't think it wasn't already zoned for business. Once again — this is not changing the color of the neighborhood." All of his abutters favor his proposal, Gurry added.

Gurry assured the planners that he has access to "ample parking" to serve his proposed office, explaining that he has the use of eight spaces in a 31-space lot behind his building, which belongs to abutter John Davidson. He would work out of the office with two employees, Gurry said.

He presented the board with what he described as a certified letter from Davidson, agreeing to make more space available to Gurry, if necessary.

Parking regulations would restrict Gurry to using only his first floor as an office, he said, denying that he could add offices on the second or third floors, or put the building to any other use.

"My intentions are strictly to work out of the house that I live in," he told the board. "I can't make a gas station or a nursing home out of it — that's absolutely absurd. There's no parking."

Of the list of 28 uses that are permitted by right in the general business zone, Gurry said, "I can't name one that I qualify for — the only thing I can qualify for is an office on the first floor. I am totally restricted."

Later he added, "I'd be glad to give you any covenant you'd like that I will use it only for my business, and only the first floor."

Gurry reminded the planners that his neighborhood has recently been considered as a possible direction for expansion of the downtown business district.

"Everyone would like to see the town stay the same as it was in 1922," he said, "but that's not the case. There are ser-

Ten From Andover In Fallout Exercise

The 54 volunteers who have been toughing it out in a fallout exercise at Doherty School for the past two days, are scheduled to emerge around noon today to a plate of hearty beef stew.

Supt. Kenneth R. Seifert reported to the school committee Tuesday night that the volunteers, including 10 from Andover, were given a "very fine" briefing by the Massachusetts Civil Defense before they went into isolation in a simulated shelter on Tuesday.

"They knew what they were getting into, yet they were very motivated," Seifert said.

Seifert said the volunteers would be eating 10 crackers and a glass of water per meal during their stay at the 650-square-foot "Doherty Hilton."

He said the public was invited to come peer at their progress.

Seifert also took the opportunity to make a pitch for Andover to take a stronger role in Civil Defense planning. He said the town wasn't as well prepared, either for nuclear fallout or any kind of emergency, "as a community like Andover should be."

He also said the administration is considering a similar fallout exercise, on a more limited scale, for high school students.

Message From Across The Sea

West Junior High ninth-grader Katie Gingras of River Road displays a letter received from an English family after they retrieved a note in a bottle Gingras launched from Cape Cod in June, 1979. The Green family of Stoke-on-Trent, Staffs, wrote that they found the bottle on Sept. 12, 1980, on a beach just north of Tywyn, Wales, while vacationing on the Welch seashore. West Junior High students sent out postcards in bottles from Race Point Beach, under the supervision of geography teacher Les Taylor, right, and math teacher Jay Darrin, left, as part of an experiment in oceanography. "We hoped the bottles will get caught in the Gulf Stream and cross the Atlantic, and that's exactly what happened this time," Taylor explains. During four years of trying the experiment, only five or six postcards have been returned, until now, Cape Sable Island off Nova Scotia was the farthest point heard from. Groups of West students spend a week on the Cape each year under the AWARE program (Andover West Activities in Recreation and Environmental Education.)

To Spray Schools For Lice

Andover elementary schools will be sprayed for lice during Thanksgiving vacation, Supt. Kenneth R. Seifert reported this week.

Then, he said, every child's head will be examined upon their return in the first week of December.

While the problem has been more publicized at Bancroft, there have been cases at West Elementary as well.

But Seifert said there have been only 42 cases out of a total of 5600 school youngsters.

But For The Timing

Andover voters tonight will be asked to decide if a condominium or townhouse bylaw should be adopted, and also whether such provisions should be applied to the Argilla Road, Andover Street area.

The decision is an important one for the town, since adoption would permit the first development of townhouses, or condominium development in the community.

The proposal seems an appropriate use of the land which is owned by Sidney P. White. The developer is reputable and has provided Andover with quality construction in several areas of town.

The timing of the proposal remains a question, however.

Special town meetings devoted to particular, almost single, issues are often not in the best interests of the town, although due to the democratic process, can be called anytime through acquisition of sufficient signatures on a petition.

This particular one is a little more difficult in view of the adoption of a zoning regulation which will have far-reaching effects on the town as a whole.

More advantageous to the town would have been the bylaw change and the Argilla Road proposal going to the annual town meeting next year.

This would have allowed more time for the community development and planning department to study the bylaw and its overall impact on the entire town.

Being presented with the matter in late summer and during the autumn, planners did their best to examine the proposed new zoning regulation. But, we think what effect its adoption will have on the many areas of the town which could be subsequently, similarly developed, has not been determined.

Pointing out these concerns seems to be in keeping with the tenor of the town itself, which in recent years has expressed a desire to keep a watchful eye on the town's growth.

As for the specific proposal — the sale of the White land to Wynwood Associates for townhouse development — indications are that this would probably be the most advantageous use of the particular parcel.

A few years ago, White had an offer by the U.S. Postal Service to purchase the property and place a new postal facility there. It faced stiff opposition from the townspeople and administration to the point the postal service realigned its plans, sent the mail to Lawrence for processing and left the main office on Main Street. While it's not the Andover employees fault per se, service in Andover hasn't been the same since we lost a central control point for the town's postal service.

This is the second attempt by White to dispose of the parcel in what he says is "my lifetime and I want to see it left in some state that the town will be proud."

If rejected, there is little doubt that White will turn the property over to single-house development, which, in terms of services, would probably prove more costly than the proposal before the voters tonight.

The townhouse concept does not answer the problem of the young couple desirous of staying in Andover, since cost-wise they belong in the "upper brackets," as realtors refer to their product.

But it may serve a need for older, retired residents of Andover who would like to rid themselves of the responsibility of single home ownership, yet retain equity, which a townhouse would provide.

While the timing may be bad, the concept seems a good one, particularly for the area involved.

Down The Years With The Townsman

75 Years Ago — November 1905

The Selectmen have finished perambulating the town bounds and report that in nearly every case they found them correct. The bounds inspected were: Wilmington, North Reading, North Andover, Lawrence and Tewksbury.

Two of the fire engine horses caused quite a little excitement on Wednesday afternoon by darting from the yard on Park Street and running up Bartlett street. They had just been unhitched from the watering cart driven by Smith and when his back was turned for a minute they darted off.

The Superintendent of Schools has been making tests of the purity of the air in the public schoolrooms. He has not been able to find a room with more than four parts of carbonic dioxide to ten thousand parts of air, a very satisfactory showing for our ventilating apparatus.

Unknown parties early Saturday morning broke into the Ballardvale station and attempted to blow up the safe in the office, but were evidently scared away before the accomplished their purpose. The burglars procured their tools from the nearby B&M tool house. Nothing of value was stolen.

Tomorrow afternoon a battle royale will be fought on Brothers field, if the weather continues pleasant, between Andover and Fore River in the Merrimack Valley League series, association football. Fore River has won many games so far, but Andover expects to break their winning streak.

50 Years Ago — November 1930

The blinker which was formerly at the junction of Union street and North Main street in Shawsheen Village and which was lately placed at the entrance of William Street at North Main street was moved again last week and placed at the bottom of Walnut avenue at the junction of High street.

A party of men from Lawrence, Methuen and Andover spent last week in Maine on a hunting expedition. Each has bagged a deer, the limit in that state while Joseph J. DeHoutis, manager of the Shawsheen Manor, had the good fortune to bring down a 200-pound bear.

The annual ball under the auspices of the Andover Fire Department Relief Association will be held on Thanksgiving eve in the town hall. Miss Pearl Young, the singing pianist and Frank Madden, novelty comedian of the Everett L. Rich Service of Boston, will be among the entertainers who come to Andover highly recommended.

Handel's "Messiah," most popular of all the great oratorios, will be given its first performance here on Friday evening, Dec. 19, by the Andover Choral Society, in the auditorium of George Washington Hall. J. Everett Collins, organizer of the society, will direct.

Seventy-five persons, according to the distributing agent at Shea's grain store on Park street ordered rat bait from the Essex County Agricultural School at Hathorne in order to participate in the county-wide campaign against rodents.

25 Years Ago — November 1955

Robert A. Walsh, milk inspector for the town and professor of public health at the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy has announced his candidacy for the Board of Health.

The board of public works will ask the town to build a stand-pipe reservoir on Wood hill. The job may cost between a quarter and a half million dollars, according to Board of Public Works Chairman Sidney P. White.

It was "school night" at the special town meeting Monday, as all three articles relating to schools were approved by the voters. Also given approval was an article for replacement of a pump and motor at the pumping station and one for a water extension on Gleason Street. The voters thus spent $94,500 — with $77,000 to be bonded over a five-year period.

Andover's streets will be patrolled by the Lawrence Electric company "with a little more attention" to burned out street lights. William E. Casey, vice president and general manager of that company, promised that action following the board of public works' decision to hold up last month's electric bill until some service improvement could be effected by the firm.

"And the forecast for Andover and vicinity. . . Those words and what follows have saved the town a considerable amount of money during the past five years, according to BPW Superintendent Edward R. Larson. It was back in 1950 that the town first subscribed to a commercial weather forecast service, and the results have more than paid for its annual cost of $157.

10 Years Ago — November 1970

Andover will be a slight favorite to win what may be their final traditional Thanksgiving contest with North Andover.

Children's Book Week Celebrations

The Children's Room is celebrating Children's Book Week with the appearance on Saturday, Nov. 22 at 11 a.m. of the authors of "A Show of Hands — Say it in Sign Language," published this week by Addison-Wesley. Mary Beth Sullivan of Cambridge and Linda Bourke of Merrimac will be at Memorial Hall Library to talk to children of all ages and interested adults about sign language as an important way of communicating, teaching us to spell messages in the air, and giving us some ideas about "talking" without words. Join us for this very special opportunity to meet the authors behind the book! A display of new books highlighting the theme, "Books Alive," will be on view during Children's Book Week, and special book marks will also be available.

The Adventures of Tom Sawyer

The last movie of the Fall Family Film Festival will feature "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer" on Friday, Nov. 21 at 7:30 p.m. at Memorial Hall Library. This is a splendid David O. Selznick production of the famous Mark Twain yarn about mischievous Tom, his friend, Huckleberry Finn, and their adventures growing up on the Mississippi. Stars Tommy Kelly, Walter Brenna, Victor Jory and Margaret Hamilton and is open to the public without charge. Films in this series have been provided, in part, as a service of the Eastern Mass. Regional Library System, a program funded by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Wildlife Pamphlet

There's no use looking for moose on a desert, or brook trout in an ocean or prairie chickens in the forest. Each of these animals is found "only where its preferred kinds of food and shelter are present," explains a free publication available from the National Wildlife Federation.

"Wildlife of Forests and Rangelands" a 12-page illustrated booklet, takes a look at what animals those areas, and how human encroachment has changed the habitats of many animals.

Single copies are free, additional copies 10 cents each, from The National Wildlife Federation, Dept. 9, 1412 16th St., N.W., Washington, D. C. 20036.

Reagan Team Is Quick Study In Preparing for Takeover

By JACK ANDERSON and JOE SPEAR

WASHINGTON -- President-elect Ronald Reagan has delivered a quiet but clear message to the Carter administration: On Jan. 20, he intends to take firm control of the government.

His transition team has been preparing for the takeover since last July. The departing Democrats are supposed to brief the incoming Republicans. But Reagan's aides already knew most of the answers before the briefings began. They seemed to have an encyclopedic knowledge of each agency's programs.

In many instances, the Reagan people have already served notice which programs will be eliminated and which will be cut back after Inauguration Day. They are also keeping a close eye on the agencies to make sure no extra funds are spent for the wrong programs.

The transition team has also asked to see all new rules and regulations before they go into effect. The new president doesn't want any unpleasant surprises when he is sworn in.

This is a stark contrast to the transition four years ago. In 1976, Jimmy Carter set an easy, relaxed pace. He smiled at visitors, hugged stray souls, told strangers how he truly loved them. Some of his aides showed up in Washington wearing faded blue jeans and open-neck shirts.

Reagan, on the other hand, has put together an advance team of older, no-nonsense aides in three-piece suits. They are tackling the transition with quiet efficiency. In 10 days, they have already accomplished more than Carter's transition team achieved in two months.

As one White House aide admitted: "It took us a year to get completely organized. These guys are going to be ready to go in a couple of months."

They may be ready to go, but their job won't be easy. In his campaign, Reagan promised to get the government off our backs. Jimmy Carter made a similar promise in 1976, and he was unable to live up to it.

Carter pledged, for example, to reduce the number of federal agencies from 1,900 to "no more than 200." Instead, he perpetuated the federal maze. Here are just a couple of cases in point:

The Committee for the Preservation of the White House was formed in 1964. The appointees quickly discovered there wasn't much they could do to preserve the White House that wasn't already being done. "The committee obviously does little," wrote White House budget experts in a memo to Carter. "There is no doubt that (it) does not meet the requirements for continuation." But the committee did meet one requirement: It provided jobs for some of Carter's friends. It therefore stayed in business.

The Council on Women's Educational Programs was also recommended for extinction by the president's efficiency experts. The panel's negligible accomplishments simply were not worth the cost. But both women's and educational organizations supported Carter's re-election. So the president continued to support the council.

Elections are held. Different political parties take power. Appointive heads come and go. But our experience has been that the bureaucrats remain entrenched.

EXPENSIVE ELECTIONS: It will cost the taxpayers a bundle to put Democratic workhorses like Sens. Frank Church of Idaho, George McGovern of South Dakota and Birch Bayh of Indiana out to pasture. All of the incumbents who lost on Nov. 4 are entitled to pensions for their service in the Congress, and the pensions will be paid annually for the rest of their lives.

Thirty-eight members of Congress were swept out on the Republican tide. For just 11 of them, the taxpayers will be providing more than $270,000 a year in pensions. And the benefits will increase with the cost of living.

WANTED -- JETS, MISSILES, ASSORTED EQUIPMENT: If you happen to be walking through the woods or fields and come upon a plane or missile with the words "U.S. Air Force" written on it, you could make some fast money. The Air Force has just raised the rewards offered to those who find lost equipment. A multimillion-dollar Air Force jet, for example, can be worth $500 in reward money. A missile will bring in the same amount of cash -- dead or alive. Communications and electronic equipment is worth $200 to the brass hats; flying apparel or equipment brings a reward of $50.

WATCH ON WASTE: As part of a $74 million renovation, the Library of Congress installed a computerized conveyor belt designed to replace low-paid federal workers whose job it was to carry books back to the stacks. But the conveyor belt has already taken two years to install, and when engineers began "exercising" it last summer to iron out the bugs, they discovered it wouldn't convey. It stops and starts fitfully and will probably never work perfectly. So the human book-carriers will still have to be on hand to take over when the belt breaks down.

Breaking The Scoring Barrier

Andover High's Golden Warriors got back on the winning and scoring side last Saturday, breaking open in the first period for 15 quick points then defeating Haverhill en route to a 15-7 win. The Warriors upped their record to 4-4-1 in the process as they prepare for their Thanksgiving Day showdown with Central Catholic at Memorial Stadium, Lawrence at 10 a.m. Top photo shows Carmen Scarpa taking off on a good gain, while teammate Glen Acciard (47) helps out by blocking the Hillies' Mike Bresnahan (86). Lower photo, Brian Moriarty eludes tackler to get off another completion as he returned to action Saturday following an injury. Warriors scored on their first possession on a Moriarty to Wayne Merola pitchout, with Merola passing to Bob Heidt, all alone at the 30 and scampering. Later, in the same period, Andover blocked a punt, and Gregg Sacco completed a series of plays by plunging over from the one.

Golden Booters Edged By Lexington

By She Livermore

The Golden Booters, winners of the East Division title of the Merrimack Valley Conference League, were eliminated from the Division I State Tournament on Saturday on B.U.'s Nickerson Field by perennial tournament competitors, Lexington.

Andover found themselves under intense pressure for the first ten minutes of the game, during which Lexington made seven shots on the goal. The Booters met the challenge throughout the rest of the game and made some good shots on the goal, including one that hit the crossbar which could have changed the end result.

In the third quarter, Lexington tallied following intense pressure in front of the goal and this spelled doom for Andover. The Lexington striker was attempting to head the ball, the results of which would have been well covered by the Andover defense; however, he missed it, allowing the ball to continue on its original path and it caught the corner of the net.

In the final quarter, Andover dominated much of the play, but the Lexington defensive line and their excellent goalkeeper denied Andover's many attempts to score, and the victory went to Lexington.

Contributing to Andover's best season since establishment of the MVC League were: Seniors: Chris Bates, Barry Bloom, Brian Butler, Hoan Dang, Dan Donovan, Mark Easton, Paul Reichert, Dave Robinson, Dave Sherman, Mike Sherman and Todd Zimmerman; Juniors: David Fredette, John Lemieux, Yvan Levesque, Jeff Parker, Adam Roberts, Dan Roberts, Paul Thoday and Greg Schionis; and Sophomores: Greg Batten, Dan Boland, Steve Carbone, Dan Kimball and Todd Lockwood.

Late Fall Programs At Y.M.C.A.

As the cold fall weather sets in, registration for another term of exciting youth programs opens at the Andover-No. Andover Y.M.C.A. Enrollment, which is open to members and non-members alike, is limited.

Gymnastics instruction utilizing the National Y.M.C.A. Progressive Gymnastics program will be offered to children of all ability levels. Instruction will offer skill development in floor exercise and the various pieces of gymnastics apparatus.

The "Live Y'ers", a unique Saturday day camp type program, is open to children in grades 1-6. Youngsters will participate in gym activities and other special events in this program which will run each Saturday of the term from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m.

The National Y.M.C.A. Aquatic program serves as the basis of our instructional swimming program. Lessons for all ability levels are offered after school each weekday as well as on Saturday morning. An initial screening of your child's swimming ability will allow him to be placed with children working on the same skill level. Other aquatic activities this term feature synchronized swimming, lifesaving instruction and recreational swimming.

The "Y" will offer two special combination programs this term. Gym and Swim will combine a forty-five minute fitness class of fun activities with swimming lessons. Creative crafts and swimming has an age-grouped crafts class working on exciting projects followed by the swimming instruction described above.

The gymnasium will be in full use with the "Feelin' Good" program, the Y.M.C.A.'s cardiovascular health program for youth. The forty-five minute class sessions, which meet twice a week, center around fun fitness activities which teach children about heart health and how to exercise. In the area of team sports, the "Y" offers floor hockey and team handball.

There will be a wide variety of special interest activities to choose from as well. Table tennis, horseback riding instruction and photography all scheduled in convenient, after-school classes.

Registrations for all the above classes are now being accepted at the Andover-North Andover Y.M.C.A., 165 Haverhill St., Andover. To assure proper class size, all registrations are accepted on a first-come, first-served basis.

Best On Hockey Team

Margaret Best, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Best, Phillips Academy, Andover, was a member of Lake Forest (Ill.) College's 1980 field hockey team.

LFC hosted the IATAW Division I and Division III field hockey tournament, which was held on Oct. 31 and Nov. 1. The "Foresters" finished in third place in Division III state competition.

Undefeated Soccer JVs

French Places Second

Faithful to a tough tradition, members of the Dartmouth College men's and women's ski teams defied sub-freezing cold, gale force winds and six inches of fresh powder snow to race to the summit of the 4,810-foot-high Mt. Moosilauke north of Hanover, N.H. recently to test their pre-season conditioning.

The "race course" was the nearly three-mile long cascade of rocks known as Gorge Brook Trail from the Dartmouth Outing Club's Ravine Lodge to the peak, and winner of the demanding time trail this year was Edward E. Biddle, a freshman from Plymouth, N.H., who negotiated the steep, icy course in a time of 37:50 minutes. In good weather, a seasoned hiker, maintaining a strong pace with no rest stops, would take at least an hour and 15 minutes to reach the top.

Slowed by the snow and wind, Biddle was about three and one-half minutes off the record pace of 34:10 minutes held jointly by William K. Carow, class of 1980, who came to Dartmouth from Putney, Vt., and Christopher Nice, Dartmouth 1975, from Hanover, N.H.

Second in the time trials was, among the men, Tom French, a junior from Andover, 39:23.

Career Day

Employment in health-related careers, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, will continue to grow throughout the next decade. Dental hygiene and nursing, medical and dental assisting, radiological and medical laboratory technology are some of the careers predicted to expand. Related careers in social services and support services should also develop.

Middlesex Community College in Bedford is sponsoring a Health Career Day at the North Campus, on Dec. 3, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Exhibits and informational talks on such health-related programs as dental hygiene, dental assisting, dental laboratory technology, medical laboratory technology, medical assisting, nursing, radiologic technology, and diagnostic medical sonography will be featured throughout the morning. Teachers and counselors will be available to discuss admission requirements, part-time evening programs, full-time day programs and financial aid.

PeeWee B Team Wilmington League

Andover 7 - Wakefield 0

In the Wilmington League opposition is almost always tough, and wins not easily come by. But on Saturday, Andover had no difficulty handling a spirited Wakefield team. Early in the first period, Bill Bruno started things off, driving home an unassisted goal. Despite Andover's holding a significant edge in play, Wakefield held on well, and it was almost the end of the period before Andover got their second goal, a fine shot by Matt Alden, set up by Chris Sapuppo.

Dave Riddiford got the third goal during the second period on a fine effort with assists to Bruno and Brian Gibson, who began the play from his defense position. Wakefield continued to hang tough and that was the only additional score until the third period when Andover's constant pressure wore down their opposition. Then four goals were scored in the last half of the period. Bruno picked up his second score of the game with Mark Berberian and Matt Young assisting. Then Young scored with the assist to Kyle McCabe, and Berberian closed out the scoring, assisted by linemates McCabe and Young.

Andover 1 - Billerica 5

This game looked more like three games! Against a perennially strong Billerica team, Andover won the first period and played them almost even in the second. But in the later going, they tired under the steady pressure of their hard skating and well-seasoned opponents, who put the game out of reach.

Dave Riddiford joined center Bill Bruno and wing Mike Nelligan to form a new combination that was a going concern for most of the game. They accounted for Andover's lone goal, the first of the game, on a final effort. Bruno moved the puck in front, where Riddiford and Nelligan fought off three defenders to keep it loose, before Nelligan slid a backhand under the goalie. Later in the third period, they combined with Gregg Tormey as an effective penalty killing unit, and almost had a shorthanded goal.

Peter Trede played an excellent game at wing, as well as at defense in penalty killing situations, along with Chris Sapuppo, Matt Alden and Brian Gibson.

Throughout the game, Mark Berberian,

Matt Young and Kyle McCabe had pressure on the Billerica net, and almost scored on a couple of breakouts, but were thwarted by solid defense and goaltending.

Despite the one sided score, Chris Hansberry and Tim Adams provided some solid goaltending, each making several big saves. It was only in the late going that the strong skating Billerica offense were able to penetrate consistently with a "floater" playing at the Andover blue line.

PeeWee A Andover 3 - Reading 2

Andover's PeeWee A's played one of their best games of the season on Saturday when they defeated a very rugged Reading team 3-2. Fifteen penalties were called, nine of them on Andover. As a result, Andover played shorthanded for several minutes, but the penalty killing of Andover defensemen Matt Shine, Paul Gilmartin, Shannon McCabe and David Curtis, and the net play of goalie Gregg Najjar, held Reading to but one power play goal.

Andover scored the only goal of the first period when David Bartle poked in the rebound of Cort Pomeroy's shot. The period was very evenly played with the two teams taking turns pressuring the opposing goaltender. Andover's Earl Abdo-Mark Neaves-Georgie Heseltine line led the offense in the period, keeping the puck in the Reading zone each time out. Despite the pressure, Reading's defense managed to limit Andover to only four shots on net. Andover's defense kept Reading down to three shots.

The second period was scoreless. Andover again outshot Reading, this time 6-4, while shutting off Reading completely while they were on their three power plays. Reading's goaltender played as well as Andover's Greg Najjar in the middle period, stopping everything Andover threw at him. He made particularly good stops on David Young (twice) and Timmy Donovan. All three of these shots were set up by good passes off the stick of Stevie Donovan.

Mike Haynes Addresses Church Group

New England Patriot's cornerback Mike Haynes (center) was guest speaker at a banquet given by the Free Christian Church, Andover Baptist Church and Fellowship of Christian Athletes at the Free Church last week. Rev. Jack L. Daniel, Jr. of the Free Church (left) and Jim O'Shea of Andover greeted the football player as he arrived for the ham and roast beef supper.

Film

The Bradford College Outing Club is sponsoring the award-winning color film, "El Capitan," on Dec. 3 at 7 p.m. in Conover Hall. Critics have described it as "Hair-raising, funny, pure beautiful," "One of the very best mountain climbing films around," and "By film's end you felt that you yourself stood on the summit, numb, dazed, exhausted, euphoric." "El Capitan" deals with the successful attempt of four men to climb the treacherous "El Cap" mountain located in the Yosemite Valley area of California. Admission is free.

third period when Mosa Kaleel finished off a nice setup by Paul Gilmartin. The teams battled back and forth for the next seven minutes until Reading scored its only power play goal of the game with just over four minutes left. It took Andover less than two minutes to regain the two goal lead, scoring when Mosa Kaleel stole a Reading pass deep in the zone, and snapped a backhander by the Reading goalie. Reading came right back to score its second goal thirty seconds later, making the final two minutes very interesting. Andover held on for a well-earned victory.

Squirt B Revere 6 - Andover 0

Andover's Squirt B's ran into a much bigger Revere team on Saturday in Danvers, losing 6-0. Andover played well in spots, but Revere played consistently well throughout the game. Andover's Michael Murnane was outstanding in goal, making 23 saves, several of them on very testing shots.

Revere scored only once in the first period as Andover carried the play for several stretches. David Sopp, Todd Roycroft and Gary Bleszinski played very well as a line in the period, testing the Revere goalie several times. Revere's powerful offense was stopped several times by the fine play of Andover defensemen Danny Iandoli and Michael Tiberii.

Andover had two good chances to tie up the game in the middle period when Eddie Chaisson, John Constantine and Michael Morris were on the ice applying pressure in the Revere zone but they had no luck. Revere scored twice in the period despite good work by defensemen Eric Cutler and D.J. Camarota and goalie Michael Murnane. Revere led 3-0 going into the final period.

Revere finally wore the smaller Andover team down in the final period scoring three times. Andover did apply some pressure in the period, especially when Matty Pothier was out centering Michael and Michelle DiStefano, but the puck was just not bouncing their way. Andover deserves a lot of credit for not giving up in the face of a much bigger team. Defensemen Chip Stella and Timmy Sullivan deserve a special note for playing very well in the game. The B's are now 2-5 in the Danvers League.

Wilmington League

Andover 4 - Wilmington 6

Wilmington came on strong in the first period and in the first minute and a half got a deflected shot past goalie Ian Anderson. This tightened defensive play and Hugh Maginnis and Peter Donegian played well during this period. The offense also began to pick up momentum. The line of Brent Raftery, Glen Farnham and Steve McSweeney had several good opportunities, but were denied by good goaltending. It wasn't until the six minute mark that we managed to score. Pat Breen, on good back checking, pulled the puck away from a Wilmington center. Pat came up ice and moving to the left, blistered a low shot past the Wilmington goalie. Skating really opened up at this point and a minute later, Wilmington got another deflection past our goalie. Wilmington managed their first earned goal on a nice breakaway at the three minute mark. The hardworking line of Pat Breen, Robert Stoltz and Doug Bleszinski, on their next shift, got Andover back in the game. Doug pulled the puck away from a Wilmington wing and hit Pat with a nice pass. Pat broke in alone on the Wilmington goalie and again beat him low. The period closed with Wilmington ahead by one.

During the second period of play, Andover dominated the play. We outshot

Radiologic Technologists Seek Members

The Massachusetts Society of Radiologic Technologists will conduct a membership drive starting Nov. 24.

Chris Armstrong, R.T., 100 High Plain Road and Stanley A. Bozen, R.T., 290 Lowell Street, both of Andover, and Lucille D. Bovay, R.T., 44 Royal Crest Drive, North Andover are serving on the membership committee.

MSRT represents the educational and political needs of technologists working with x-radiation. It now has a membership of 1300 professionals practicing in the state.

The society presents at least five seminars yearly in addition to the monthly meetings and lectures which the five regional districts of the organization — Boston, Cape Cod, Merrimack, Central and Western — hold on current health care issues. In addition, the annual state convention consists of three days of workshops and speakers.

The society also plans to establish its own continuing education program for Credit and to establish a toll-free telephone for technologists seeking employment.

"WHAT'S IN A NAME?"

Is it true that every Swiss is a connoisseur of cheese; every Italian well versed in the art of lace making; every Frenchman a competent judge of wines?

Is it any wiser to presume that every one from the Orient is a natural rug-craftsman? If the work justifies the name, then the name is GREGORIAN for he has a background of generations of rug weavers added to his own skill in detection and correction of rug needs.

Y Offers Family Programs

One of the YMCAs largest national programs for families is becoming even larger according to Ed Neill, program director of the Andover-North Andover YMCA. "The addition of four new groups to the Y's Parent-Child Program is, in part, a recognition by 'Y' leaders of the enormous growth of single-parent families in the U.S.," says Neill.

The Y's Parent-Child program presently enrolls more than 500,000 parents and children yearly in 321,000 groups of fathers and sons, mothers and daughters and fathers and daughters across the United States.

Until now there have been four different programs. They are "Y" Indian Guides, and "Y" Indian Trailblazers for fathers and sons 6 to 9 and 9 to 11 years of age, "Y" Indian Princesses for fathers and daughters 6 to 9 and 9 to 11 "Y" Indian Maidens for mothers and daughters 6 to 9.

Three of the four newly formed programs enable parents to participate with older children: "Y Trail Mates for fathers and daughters, "Y" Trail Maidens for mothers and daughters and Co-ed "Y" Trail Blazers for either parent and son or daughter. The fourth is "Y" Indian Braves for mothers and their 6 to 9 year old sons.

The "Y's Parent-Child programs enable parents to set aside special times to be with their individual children. Groups are small, usually 6 to 9 sets of parents and children. Activities vary from group to group but usually include handicrafts, games, outings, songs, stories, hikes and special projects. They meet usually on a monthly basis, not at the "Y" but rather in the homes of participants.

The Andover-North Andover YMCA and Lawrence YMCA are holding an orientation meeting to learn more about these Parent-Child programs. Thursday, Nov. 20 at 7:30 p.m. at the Andover-North Andover Y. located at 165 Haverhill St., Andover.

The program will include a slide presentation, display of program materials and the chance to meet others currently involved in the tribes.

Those unable to attend this meeting should contact Ed "Flying Arrow" Neill.

Wilmington 11 to 7, but Wilmington's goalie was able to keep all attempts out of the net. Defensively, Joe Lyons and Tom Tormey did a fine job during this period with Tommy's play standing out. The line of John Gilmartin, Duke McNamara and Matt Adams had their best opportunities during this period. While Andover outshot Wilmington 15 to 13 through two periods of play, we were still behind by two goals.

In the third period, the play became somewhat disorganized. At the nine minute mark, Pat Breen sent a nice pass to Robert Stoltz streaking down the right wing. Robert swung around Wilmington's defense, and as the goalie went down, he put the puck high into the left corner. Play roughened considerably and five penalties were called during the remainder of the period, which mostly affected Andover's play. First, Wilmington scored on a breakaway, then on a power play, and finally, they scored again on a scramble in front of our net. The period ended with the final score Andover 3 and Wilmington 7.

Andover 2 Nashua 5

Andover played well but not until the second and third periods. Usually the first period is Andover's best, but it wasn't this day. Play was back and forth for the first four minutes. At the eight minute mark, Nashua got a two man breakaway and scored on a nice pass to the open wing. Again play was back and forth for four minutes. Unable to clear the puck from our zone, Nashua scored. Thirty seconds later, on the same type of play, they scored again. With a minute left, Nashua was able to bang in their fourth goal on a second shot on goalie Anderson. A tough first period ended with Nashua ahead 4 to 0.

Rather than letting down, Andover seemed to come alive and the defense tightened. The defensive pairings of Tom Tormey, Peter Donegan and Joe Lyons played excellent defense for the remainder of the game. The play went well with Andover having several excellent opportunities. The lines of Brent Raftery, Glen Farnham and Steve McSweeney and Matt Adams, Hugh Maginnis and Johnny Gilmartin had good opportunities. However, none was better than Pat Breen's on a pass from Robert Stoltz. Pat broke in to put the puck past their goalie, but hit the post. The puck remained exposed in the crease until Nashua was able to cover it up. This was the way it was to be for Andover for the whole period. At the one minute mark, Nashua, on a good screen shot from the point, scored. Goalie Anderson played well during this period stopping five shots. Andover found itself out 5 to 0 at the end of the second period.

Andover dominated the third period. Defensively Andover shut out Nashua during this period. Offensively all three lines put continuous pressure on Nashua. Play roughened considerably and Nashua committed six penalties to our one. The line of Pat Breen, Doug Bleszinski and Robert Stoltz had the first score. The play was made by defenseman Tom Tormey hitting Pat Breen with a nice pass. Pat broke in alone on the Nashua goalie, moved left and snapped a quick shot past him. With 10 minutes left, Nashua started running around and committed several penalties. This kept the pressure on Nashua, but they were able to kill off all the penalties. At the two minute mark, Robert Stoltz hit Pat Breen with a nice pass. Pat followed up with a pass to Doug Bleszinski, who beat the goalie again on the left side. The game ended with Andover losing 5 to 2.

Andover would have liked to have the first period back, having outscored Nashua two goals to one in the final two periods. Goalie Ian Anderson stopped six shots in the third period shutting Nashua out. In all, Ian stopped 15 out of the 20 shots on him. Total penalties were eight for Nashua and two for Andover.

An incredible new boiler is being marketed by one of our nation's largest manufacturers.

Cuts your heating bills up to 35% or more.

New HYDRO-PULSE™ unit can cut gas bills up to 35%.

More of the gas burned by the Hydro-Pulse boiler is used to heat the home... and none is wasted up a flue or chimney. The temperature of the combustion gases leaving the Hydro-Pulse boiler are so low, no flue or chimney are needed. A plastic pipe simply carries the exhaust outdoors.

A HYDRO-PULSE™ unit saves more each year.

If the Hydro-Pulse boiler saves you $300 this year, in five years, with costs doubling, it will save you $800

he saved $2,344.

Mr. Pellegrini tells us he saved, by his own estimation, $2,344, or 64%, with the Hydro-Pulse boiler units in his factory-type building... in Piermont, N.Y.

If you're switching from oil or electric, savings can be 40% or more.

In many instances, your savings can pay for the entire cost of an installed Hydro-Pulse boiler in three years or less.

Fuel bills will keep rising.

Industry analysts predict that fuel costs will continue to soar for oil and gas during the next 10 years. Protect yourself now with the Hydro-Pulse heating unit.

Joseph W. Ensel estimates a $789 saving.

His total bill for the two coldest months of last year using the Hydro-Pulse boiler was $151.85 for heating, domestic hot water and gas clothes dryer. Mr. Ensel's home is 1,800 square feet.

Approved and Certified.

The Hydro-Pulse unit is approved and certified by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers (A.S.M.E.) and the American Gas Association (A.G.A.).

Ag-Tech Budget Lower

Commissioner John W. McKean announced today that the budget for the Essex Agricultural and Technical Institute will be less than last year's. The budget for the school was discussed in a budget sub-committee meeting held at the school. This year's budget will be just over $3 million dollars. This represents a small decrease from last year.

The budget sub-committee has recommended the elimination of nine jobs from last year's budget. The jobs recommended for elimination include that of guidance counsellors. "The voters spoke loud and clear two weeks ago when they passed Proposition 2½. Hardships are sure to follow, but it is up to responsible public officials to do all we can to comply with the letter and spirit of the law," said Commissioner McKean.

"We have an excellent school," said McKean, "and we must do everything that we can to support the services for the students and cut out all the frills. The budget sub-committee took their job very seriously and I think that we have a very fair budget."

The Essex Aggie budget now goes to the full board of trustees before being passed on to the County Commissioners prior to going to the Legislature for final approval.

have to cut."

He said he felt six percent forces the administration to make some decisions "up front," but that also leaves the question open-ended until some more information is forthcoming on 2½.

Colleague Donald Robb said the system is going to have to look into the possibility of using parents or other volunteers from the community to staff certain activities.

"This is the sort of thinking that ought to be provoked by 2½," he said.

He suggested that field trips might be funded by student families rather than through the budget.

"They say necessity is the mother of invention," Finn concluded, "and we're going to have to be very inventive."

Freeze On Any New Positions

The school committee Tuesday night voted unanimously to put a freeze on filling any new positions that are still open, and to replace only the most "vital" vacancies that occur throughout the system.

School Committeeman John Eaton moved for the action, saying he felt it was important to let the town know "we're working in the right direction."

He noted that the town had voted 8 to 5 in favor of Proposition 2½.

Town Meeting

ficials said they strongly oppose the proposed zoning bylaw amendment.

"My concerns are little connected to the specific proposal (Baker Village), which I think has a number of merits," Town Manager Jared S.A. Clark told the planners. "But town planning should not be done by developers, no matter how well-intentioned they might be to provide this type of (townhouse) housing."

The manager emphasized that town officials need more time to develop a satisfactory plan to allow more multi-family housing in Andover, and feel that the calling of a special town meeting did not leave the town enough time to develop a good zoning bylaw amendment.

"It is reasonable to request that the town act in a timely fashion," Clark said, "by the next annual town meeting, which will probably be held around June first, due to the deliberations of the legislature."

"We should make a commitment to Mr. White and the town to act by that time — and asking for that additional time is not an unreasonable delay."

In a written report to the planning board, the manager also outlined several specific objections to the proposed bylaw amendment.

The town's master planning, including water and sewer facilities, is based on an assumed population of 45,000. "The proposal before us will not alter that, but it will set a precedent," Clark said. "This particular project will not overtax the town's facilities, but a succession of similar proposals inappropriately placed will."

The Andover Country Club and Pole Hill in Ballardvale are two sites that could be proposed for townhouse developments, the manager said.

Clark said he does not favor the idea of town meeting approval of each developer's proposal because that is the responsibility of the planning board. He added that the bylaw "does not give adequate guidelines by which town meeting can approve or deny specific proposals" —

Christmas Concerts

The Bradford-Pentucket Chorale, conducted by Charles W. Ludington with Mark Peterson at the organ, will present its traditional pair of Christmas concerts on Dec. 7 at 4:30 and 8:15 p.m. in Conover Hall. The chorus, assisted by four soloists, Jane Cormier, soprano, Jane Struss, mezzo-soprano, Peter Kronenberger, tenor, and Richard Farnsworth, baritone, will present the Bach Cantata No. 61: Now Comes the Savior of the Heathen, and a group of traditional folk-songs arranged by Beethoven.

Miss Struss, widely known in the Boston area and instructor of voice at Bradford College, will sing the Bach Solo-Cantata No. 170: Beloved Rest, Blessed Peace of the Soul. All works on the program will employ a chamber orchestra lead by the violinist, Verena Dobnik.

The concerts will be preceded by a half-hour showing of color slides of famous European churches.

Textile Center Offers Clinics

Free clinics are being offered by the Merrimack Valley Textile Conservation Center in North Andover, as a service to non-profit institutions in Massachusetts. Organizations are invited to make appointments to bring in antique textiles and costumes for examination by a conservation specialist whose advice on storage and handling can lengthen the life of the fabrics.

"We want to encourage small museums and other non-profit organizations like schools and libraries to show us their problems in their textile collections," says conservator Jane Hutchins. "People are becoming more and more aware of the fact that air and light and moisture as well as other things in the environment cause fabrics to deteriorate. One of our goals here at their center is to educate people about the ways that deterioration can be slowed."

"The center will compile information all year long during the clinics. A new series of conservation leaflets that answer the most frequently asked questions will be developed," says Anne Hawley, executive director of the State Arts Council

Patients Records Is Topic

Lawrence General Hospital (LGH) Department of Education presents "Just For The Record", an all day workshop in the Hospital's Kurth Auditorium Nov. 20 from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The presentation includes a discussion of the importance of appropriate documentation in patient's record.

A representative from the Joint Underwriters Association will present the legal aspects of documentation and the Garrett Players will present a case where the audience is the jury.

This program has been awarded seven contact hours by the Massachusetts Nurses Association and by Licensed Practical Nurses, Inc. for R.N.'s and L.P.N.'s respectively.

To register, call the LGH Department of Education.

(nor does it) require that sufficient information be submitted in advance" to fully inform voters of "what is being considered."

The proposed bylaw is not restrictive enough, the manager said: for example, required open space could actually be covered with swimming pools and tennis courts, he said, and the maximum project size and number of units are not specified.

Finally, the manager predicted that the planning board could run into difficulty if it tries to amend the bylaw at the annual town meeting.

"When you try to undo the problems that will be created by this bylaw, you will be at a severe disadvantage," Clark told the planners. "There will be some (voters) who will want no multi-family housing, and some who will have a vested interest in keeping this bylaw without additional restrictions — so your chances of getting a two-thirds vote for a more reasonable proposal would be severely diminished."

Director of Public Works Robert McQuade also spoke against the proposed bylaw amendment because it would "take the root of the town's master plan for water and sewer development and throw it out the window. We would have to start over again, at great expenditures to the community."

McQuade called the town's master sewer plan "second to none — no other community in the country has anything better." The town has spent $50 million to date implementing the plan, he said, which is based on the town's existing zoning bylaw.

"Article Two I have no qualms with," McQuade said. "The utilities are there in that area. But if we allow multi-family housing outside the central core of the borders — we really have a problem."

The DPW director said the town would particularly have problems with trying to provide adequate fire protection for new multi-family housing, because many of the water pipes are too small.

McQuade also advised waiting until the annual town meeting before acting on the issue of multi-family housing, so that the town can "see what land can sustain it, and not throw everything we've done down the drain."

White called it "most unfortunate" that the manager and DPW director spoke to the planning board Monday night, rather than during last week's public hearing. "I resent that this testimony did not come out when it was supposed to," the former selectman said.

Planning Board Chairman Paul Teplitz replied that the board is free to "consider any matter that's before us" at any time, adding, "Our deliberations are open to the public."

The manager pointed out that, as a town official, he is "not constrained to address the planning board only during a public hearing."

As the hour approached 11 p.m. Monday night, the board decided to resume discussion of White's articles Tuesday night.

That night, following another two-hour discussion, four board members agreed that they would rather wait until the annual town meeting to present a zoning bylaw amendment.

"We haven't had time to consider this properly," said board member Andrew Girdwood. "We're being pushed against the wall. I don't think our request to wait six months is unreasonable."

David Gravalles said that "the fundamental issues have not been — cannot be — addressed. I'm opposed to the two articles on that basis alone."

Chairman Teplitz said it appears that the town is being asked to accept the "risks" of an inadequate bylaw because of "one guy's need to have this done by Dec. 31 — and that doesn't seem like a reasonable trade.

"The planning process requires patience on both sides," he added. "A lot of developers have learned to live with that, although they may not like it."

White told the planners it would be to the town's advantage, and not just his own, to begin the project during 1981. "The profit would be much greater to the town that it would be to me," he said, "and not just in dollars. Time is very important."

Tomlinson, the only board member to favor the two articles, said White's plan

Arnold Dancers To Perform

The Institute of Contemporary Art will present Becky Arnold and Dancers on Sunday at 8:30 p.m. and Monday at 6 and 8 p.m.

The six-member modern jazz company will present a blend of new and repertory work designed for the unique space of the ICA Galleries. The program will feature the premiere of "Encounters," an environmental dance work by Becky Arnold, the premiere of "Message to an Endangered Planet," choreographed by guest artist Mimi Kagan, "Dancing with Fats," Arnold's suite to the music of Fats Waller, "A Blues and A Boogie," a solo work choreographed and performed by Arnold to the music of the Count Basie Trio, the premiere of Arnold's "Openers" to music of the Woody Herman Big Band, and the premiere of "Speed Living," choreographed by Arnold.

Becky Arnold and Dancers have performed throughout New England for the past two years. Prior to moving to Boston in 1972, Arnold performed with Yvonne Rainer, The Grand Union, Gus Solomons, Jr., Helen Tamiris and Daniel Nagrin. Arnold has been awarded two National Endowment for the Arts Choreography Fellowships and has produced concerts of her work in New York City and Boston. She has set dances for the Boston Ballet Ensemble and the Cambridge Ballet Theatre, and in 1977 presented her solo dance/film program at the New York University School of the Arts.

Arnold has taught jazz dance at Emerson College, the Joy of Movement Center, the Cambridge School of Ballet, and currently at MJT Dance Company School. Nationally recognized for her inventive choreography and strong performance, Arnold was described by Amanda Smith of Dance Magazine as a "Strong, unique, performer," by Anna Kisselgoff of the New York Times, "Miss Arnold's concert turned out to be an inventive variation held together by her sophisticated sense of form and her integrity," and by Robb Baker of Dance Magazine, "She's jumping, and running, and circling until the dance seems to fill the entire room. Epiphany."

would "not be a precedent — it is one plan, one developer." On Monday night he said that he saw "a lot of injustice about to be perpetrated upon a certain individual with a good plan."

Teplitz Tuesday night repeated the board's opinion that White and Wynwood have come up with an attractive proposal for the Andover Street land. "Everyone likes Baker Village," he said. "We all agree it would be a good thing and we would like to have it for Andover. But you are bringing it to us with a very bitter pill to swallow in terms of planning and the government process."

property as their baseline, the teams of two archaeologists have been dividing the site into sections and digging pits at regular intervals, Mahlstedt says.

Each shovelful of soil is sifted to sort out any artifacts — and when artifacts are found, they are bagged according to the layer of soil they were found in. The teams then fill in the hole and move on to the next spot, "leap-frogging across the site," says the field director.

"You never know what you're going to find," says archaeologist Philip Sallaway. "You find things in the oddest spots — and when you least expect it, that's often when you find the most."

So far, their work has unearthed arrowheads and "flakes" (waste material from the crafting of arrowheads) dating as far back as 5000 to 2000 B.P., which is known as the late archaic period, "one phase of prehistory in the New World," Mahlstedt explains.

They have also found artifacts of the "woodland phases," 2000 to 300 B.P. "The woodland phases were very prolific occupational phases around here," Mahlstedt says.

He adds that he hopes to find wooden artifacts in the wet marshland area — a possibility because moisture preserves organic material. Future efforts may turn up bone material, as well as seeds, plants and food sources, he says, evidence that the Indians were "accomplished horticulturists by the time the Europeans came."

Most of the artifacts are sent to the University of Massachusetts-Boston to be cleaned and catalogued. Analysis of some of the arrowheads shows that the raw materials came not from this area, but from Marblehead, Saugus and the Blue Hills.

Mahlstedt explains that the Indians "could not use just any stone for flaking — they needed a certain type of stone to fashion into these stem points." Local Indians may have traded with other tribes for the materials; or the others may have spent part of the year hunting along the "extremely rich" banks of the Merrimack, later returning home.

The archaeologists have found prehistoric artifacts ranging all the way to the historic period, and the field director says the evidence shows that the Indians' "traditional lifeways were very rapidly affected by their contact with the Europeans": for example, the use of iron and muskets appears quite suddenly.

The Indians were usually friendly toward the first settlers, it is believed, but hostilities erupted later over land claims.

As part of the agreement between the Andover Historical Society and the state Historical Commission, all prehistoric Indian artifacts will be given to the R.S. Peabody Foundation at Phillips Academy, and all historic artifacts, to the local society.

The Historical Society hopes that eager amateurs will not disrupt the study by scouring the site now, but instead will refrain until next year, when the survey is completed.

In recent months, the Shattuck farm has seemed more endangered than ever by industrial development: one of the farm buildings fell under the wrecker's ball, and a drainage ditch was dug across the site.

But the local historical society is now hopeful that archaeologists and developers can work together to identify and preserve the most archaeologically valuable sections of the farm.

"Because there have been so many present-day disturbances on the site, that's why it is so important that we have the opportunity to do this survey, this kind of detailed, intensive research, without being rushed," Mahlstedt observes. "And that doesn't happen very often. We are quite fortunate — there just aren't many sites like this around."

Concert

A special feature of the fall Hammond Castle Museum concert series, "Opera Night at the Castle," will be held at 8 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 29.

The vocal concert features Anne Gardner, soprano, and Peter Kronenberg, tenor.

Anne Gardner is a graduate of Lowell University and attended Boston University where she was graduate assistant to Thomas Dunn, director of choral programs. A student of EllaLou Dimmock and Allen Rogers, Ms. Gardner has appeared as soloist with Handel & Haydn Society, Cecilia Society, Cape Ann Chamber Orchestra and Singers and is on the faculty at Keene State College, N.H.

The theme of the concert, "Opera through the Ages," will feature solos and duets of works by Purcell, Handel, Verdi, Puccini, and Gilbert and Sullivan.

Electricity moves so fast it's used at almost the same instant it's produced.

vices to be offered. There are only 131 businesses in this town in 31 square miles — that's terrible. The town is growing. The town needs change."

Director of Community Planning and Development Kear said he "would suppose there is adequate parking for an office on the first floor," although he said he was not certain because Gurry had not provided the town with a plot plan.

Kear said he would attempt to resolve the parking question in time for tonight's town meeting. However, he added, "My recommendation (to disapprove Gurry's article) is not based on parking, but on the planning issues — on the overriding concept."

Planning Board member David Gravalles said he feared approval of Gurry's proposal would prompt other Main Street property owners to request zoning changes.

"If we went along with this, it would definitely influence the character of the neighborhood," Gravalles said. "It would make it harder for us to logically deny a change for property closer to the center, where some of these other uses (permitted in the general business district) might be possible."

Gurry replied that each case would have to be brought before the planning board and town meeting, and "considered on its own merits. I don't believe you can duplicate my situation in any other part of town."

"We haven't had a master plan for the downtown area for 15 years," he added. "I can't wait for another 15 years. I have to compete in this town."

Former planning board member Margaret Keck of 52 Harold Parker Road pointed out that the town does have a master plan for the area, one developed in 1965.

"That plan stressed the importance of keeping a compact downtown, and not allowing it to sprawl down Main Street," she told the planners. "I agree with Rhys (Kear) that, from a planning view, this is a bad article."

Keck added, however, that "some of

Mr. Gurry's points are well-taken," explaining that she favors the concept of a "buffer zone" of business offices and residences around the central business district — "but not by rezoning."

The board of selectmen last week voted unanimously to recommend disapproval of Gurry's article. "The Central Business District Committee should be the committee to work on enlarging the business district," Selectman Noma Gammon said during the public hearing, "and not a private individual wanting to do it for his own reasons."

Thursday at 10 a.m. at the Alvah G. Hayes field in North Andover. North Andover has made application for acceptance in the Cape Ann league a matter which will be decided some time in December.

Its municipal budget time again, and as it predictable, the document will be an item to conjure with, what with rising costs all around. Major areas to be considered will concern themselves with the police department and the public works department. Recommendations for increased personnel is expected to be made in both departments.

WHOLESALE vs RETAIL LAND

In the normal marketplace, there are two price levels - wholesale and retail. The purchase and sale of raw land is no different. A review of the sales price history of any large parcel of land will show abrupt little jumps as the acreage is subdivided and sold off in smaller lots.

Much of this increase is due to the cost of improvements such as sewers, streets, sidewalks and utilities. But increases of this sort are also due to the wholesale/retail marketing structure of the world. Therefore, consider bulk buying of land at a wholesale level a good way to buy. It may take the pooling of several financial sources (partners, for example). But if ten acres are available for $5,000 per acre, then 40 acres may be available for $4,000 per acre if you are buying from one seller.

Conversely, assemblage, which is the act of buying a group of small parcels to make up one large parcel, can prove very costly because the buyer will have to pay retail prices.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at THE HOWE AGENCY, 4 Punchard Ave., Andover. Phone: 475-5100. We're here to help.

Edith St. Jean Retiring

The school committee Tuesday night approved the retirement of Edith V. St. Jean, who has been with the school system for the past 13 years.

She was secretary to Richard McGrail, who is building program coordinator this year, and former principal of East Jr. High.

The committee also okayed salary increases, effective for July 1, 1980, and Jan. 1, 1981, for the only three secretaries who are not members of the school secretaries association.

Theresa McNally, confidential secretary to the superintendent, received $14,176 and $14,460 respectively, while Selma Fleider, confidential secretary to the assistant superintendent, received $13,699 and $13,973, and Mavis Cox, confidential secretary to the personnel/business manager, $13,774 and $14,062.

In other personnel action, the committee accepted the resignations of Gary Hendrickson as student council advisor at the high school for the current school year; Tanya Keith, instructional aide (I.A.) at East Jr. High; Mary Jo Grillo, media aide at Bancroft, and Lois Peters, child search and identification specialist with the Title VI program.

They also granted a personal leave of absence for Christine Keffeler, high school English teacher, for the 1981-82 school year, and extension of a child bearing leave for Synthia Weiss, art teacher at West Elementary School, through the remainder of the current school year.

Keffeler's is the first leave request for next year; this year, there are nine employees on regular leave and 10 on child bearing leave.

Appointed were: Carol Abdo of Andover, career education specialist at West Jr. High School on permanent substitute basis for approximately six weeks, bachelor's step I level ($12,248 a year); David Buck of Andover, junior custodian at Bancroft, second shift, pending return of a man on leave of absence, $12,016; Carrie Chakarian of Andover, I.A. at West Elementary, Celeste DiFruscia of Lawrence, English at the high school on permanent substitute basis, $12,248; David Edmondson of Haverhill, third shift, junior custodian at West Jr. High, $12,016; Karen Einberg of Andover, I.A. at Sanborn School; step 2; Sherron Heller of Andover, I.A. at West Jr. High, step 2; 1; June Knowles of Andover, teacher's aide (T.A.) at West Elementary, step 1; Beverly McAllister of Andover, Grade 5 at South School on permanent basis, half time, $6,124; Judith A. Meier of Andover, I.A. at Bancroft, step 1; Patricia Mirisola of Andover, I.A. at West Elementary, step 1; Theresa Morris of Andover, T.A. at West Elementary, step 1; Elaine O'Brien of Andover, I.A. at Shawsheen, step 1; Roger Roux of South Lawrence, third shift, junior custodian at the high school, $11,615; Theresa Sapienza of Andover, health I.A. at East Jr. High, step 1; Ann Scioli of Andover, media T.A. at Bancroft, step 1; Marianne Torrisi of Andover I.A. at Sanborn, step 1; and Miriam Weisberg of Melrose, director of outreach services for Title IV-C, the peer counseling project, three-fifths time ($19,520 per year fulltime).

The committee also appointed persons to three federally-funded positions, pending receipt of those funds: James M. O'Loughlin of Methuen, survival skills counselor at the high school, parttime based on a salary of $9,798; Patricia Korandis of Andover, career counselor aide at the high school, $4.19 an hour and Child Care II outreach instructor/coordinator, parttime, $4,899 a year; and JoAnn Samra of Andover, coordinator-cooperative office education program, $8,262 a year.

parttime. She remains a parttime business education teacher at $12,393 a year.
